Christine Nagle, CPMC, CPRC

Area of Expertise

As a senior client services specialist, Christine Nagle provides marketing and client services for Rob Martensen, vice chair; Emily Currie, associate vice president, who specialize in the sale and leasing of industrial, office, and healthcare properties, and Jerry LoCoco, vice president specializing in industrial leasing, sales, and the development of land in all commercial product sectors.

Christine's principal responsibilities are to manage all marketing activities and assist in developing innovative marketing strategies for each client and property, including print and digital marketing campaigns. She creates and distributes impactful property marketing materials to targeted prospects and the brokerage community.

In support of business development, Christine prepares client presentations and proposals, coordinates client and property tours, and organizes open houses and special events. She compiles essential market research and analysis to provide brokers and clients with insights on market conditions and trends that affect real estate decisions.

Christine facilitates communications between the brokers and clients, ensuring information is shared in a timely and efficient manner. She also maintains property activity reports and broker databases. Christine's advanced skills include Adobe Creative Suite (including InDesign and Photoshop), CoStar research, Email Studio email marketing and Microsoft Office applications.
