Reagan O'Toole

Area of Expertise

Reagan joined Colliers in 2016 as part of the office services division. He specializes in advising companies with real estate leasing and ownership solutions throughout Kansas City and the United States.

During his time at Colliers, Reagan has worked to develop new business and create real estate strategies to help his clients cut costs and increase revenues. His primary responsibilities include business development, lease structure and negotiation, and market and financial analysis. He strives to advance the company's tenant and owner representation team both locally and nationally.

Business & Educational Background

Reagan attended the University of Kansas where he received a Bachelor of Science in Journalism: Strategic Communications, as well as concentrations in Psychology, Sociology, and English.
